

Kongsberg Satellite Services (KSAT) is one of the world's leading commercial satellite centres. KSAT develops and delivers satellite-based data, information and services to customers worldwide. The staff of more than 90 dedicated professionals are based at the head office in Tromsø, the facility on Svalbard and a sales office in Oslo. KSAT operates ground stations in Tromsø, on Svalbard, in Grimstad and in Antarctica. KSAT is growing rapidly, and we now are recruiting Sales and Marketing professionals.

International Sales Managers

KSAT seeks two energetic, outgoing marketing professionals who enjoy the challenges of the global market. If you can put yourself in the driving seat and create new prospects, you should consider this opportunity.

You will work closely with our sales team and will have responsibility for new and existing clients and for creating profitable sales. You will be responsible for identifying new prospects and cultivating them to concrete sales. One position will focus on sales of services to satellite owners, and the other position focuses on the sales of satellite-based monitoring services.

Qualifications and characteristics:

- Result-oriented
- Outgoing person with good communication skills
- Proficient in written and verbal English
- Internationally experienced with an understanding of cultural differences
- Independent and well-organized

Knowledge of the international space-related sector or the applications of satellite images is desirable but not a requirement. We assume that you will have higher education.

There's considerable potential for professional and personal development in the company. We offer salary according to qualifications, good insurance coverage and an enjoyable working environment. Women are encouraged to apply.

The workplace will be in Oslo or Tromsø.
